Introduction

This document is provided to assist our financial intermediary clients and prospective clients with their Due Diligence obligations, especially those relating to Consumer Duty, around the use of the GrowthInvest platform, technology and network.

It is intended to make collecting key information about us and our approach as a platform towards Consumer Duty, as straightforward as possible. In particular it addresses the FCA Consumer Duty rules that require firms such as GrowthInvest to:

1. Define target markets clearly for their products and services
2. Assess the Value of those propositions, considering the needs of different customer groups, including vulnerable customers.

It has been prepared for those financial intermediary clients, or distributors, who are taking advantage of our specialist technology and services to reduce the administrative burden associated with consolidating portfolios and selecting, making investments and reporting on tax-efficient and alternative investments.

It has been prepared in line with FCA guidelines and aims to provide information in a clear and presentable format that will allow our distributors to use in a number of ways, including as part of client conversations. It includes a summary of our Target Market, our Fair Value Assessment and outlines how GrowthInvest has approached the overall Consumer Principle, the Cross-Cutting Rules, and each of the Four Outcomes.

As a company and as a business, GrowthInvest has always placed both our financial intermediary clients and their underlying customers, at the heart of everything we do and focus on. We welcomed the introduction of the FCA's Consumer Duty and believe that it represents a big step forward for the financial services industry as a whole.

Additional information on any aspect of the company, its approach to Consumer Duty or its services can be provided on request, and we would be very happy to speak to any of our intermediary clients at any stage if there is any further help we can provide.

Consumer Duty

What is Consumer Duty?

Consumer Duty, or “The Duty”, is a set of standards which have been created by the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) to improve consumer protection and build more trust across the whole spectrum of financial services in the UK.

THE PRINCIPLE

At the heart of the Duty, there lies an overriding Consumer Principle:

A firm must act to deliver good outcomes for retail clients

This is supported by three cross cutting rules, and four customer outcomes:

THREE CROSS CUTTING RULES

A firm must:

- Act in good faith towards retail customers
- Avoid causing foreseeable harm to retail customers
- Enable and support retail customers to pursue their financial objectives

FOUR CONSUMER OUTCOMES

- 1. Products & Services
This outcome is focused on ensuring products and services are designed with a clear target market in mind, and the customers’ needs, characteristics and objectives are documented.
- 2. Price & Value
This outcome aims to ensure that all customers pay a fair price for the product or service they receive and that the price paid is reasonable compared to the overall value and benefit they receive.
- 3. Consumer Understanding
This outcome requires firms to provide clear information so that customers can make informed decisions about financial products and services.
- 4. Consumer Support
This outcome is focused on ensuring that customers have sufficient support and information to meet their needs throughout their relationship with a firm.

Summary of Our Approach & Findings

This report summarises GrowthInvest's approach to meeting the requirements of the FCA's Consumer Duty and sets out our key findings across each of the four Consumer Duty outcomes.

Consumer Duty has been embedded into GrowthInvest's governance, product oversight and operational framework, with a clear focus on designing and delivering services around customer needs rather than commercial outcomes. In particular, significant investment has been made in platform functionality, client engagement and service capability to ensure that all customers—including those with vulnerabilities or additional needs—are supported to achieve good outcomes.

Our assessment has drawn on management information, product governance processes, operational metrics, adviser and client feedback, and ongoing oversight by senior management.

Overall, we are satisfied that GrowthInvest continues to act in good faith, avoids foreseeable harm, and enables customers to pursue their financial objectives

A summary of our assessments and actions can be found immediately below, and further details are provided on each of the 4 outcomes, including our approach, findings and any next steps within the individual sections:

1. Products & Services:

GrowthInvest has reviewed its platform, accounts and associated services to ensure they remain aligned with customer needs, characteristics and objectives within the defined target market.

We have also provided the appropriate Target Market documents for the platform and available accounts.

2. Price & Value:

Based on our overall Fair Value Assessment, we believe that the GrowthInvest platform offers fair value to the target market.

3. Consumer Understanding:

We have reviewed all client documentation and collateral and amended or enhanced where appropriate or required. Where required, we have used external 3rd parties to provide research, feedback and input. We continue to add to our growing library of customer collateral, and to gather 3rd party and customer feedback on the same. Much of this has focused on the continued expansion of our Knowledge Centre.

4. Consumer Support:

We reviewed all our processes and associated metrics, including performance vs. SLAs and targets. We have reviewed existing support materials and contact points. Consumer support has been a key area of focus, with particular emphasis on accessibility, responsiveness and the treatment of customers with additional needs.

1. Products and Services Outcome

REQUIREMENT

Making sure that products (and services) are designed to meet the target customers' needs, characteristics and objectives.

OUR APPROACH

The launch of the client portal and user interface in 2023 provided us with an excellent opportunity to assess and focus on the needs and requirements of our customers, and to make sure we were properly addressing them.

This has continued to be done throughout via client feedback and research, both in determining the product pipeline and priorities, as well as in getting reactions and feedback first-hand to new functionalities, including those customers that may be vulnerable, or show signs of vulnerability.

The whole process has been carried out alongside an ongoing review and analysis of our client base, and target market.

This has included the enhancement of a number of key client personas, which are a useful addition to existing client segmentation.

KEY DEVELOPMENTS & FINDINGS

We have expanded and improved our overall product and platform framework, including the development lifecycle, to ensure that we are assessing the overall service in a comprehensive manner. We have also enhanced our internal reporting and MI on our service levels, including an enhanced set of statistics on platform usage and availability.

- A major platform project has been delivered to introduce a dedicated “Additional Needs” section, allowing advisers, clients and GrowthInvest staff to record and manage agreed support requirements in a structured and consistent way.
- This functionality has been designed to ensure that client needs are appropriately identified, visible at key points of interaction, and supported throughout the product lifecycle.
- Product governance arrangements continue to be proportionate to the nature of the platform and the specialist investments facilitated, with clear controls around distribution.
- A more formalised product development and review process has been implemented to ensure that the product pipeline is directly informed by adviser and client feedback, with a clearer forward view shared with clients on upcoming enhancements.

NEXT STEPS

We will continue to drive our products and services based on clear and consolidated customer feedback, all the time considering differing client segments. This will continue to be a focus for our Client Engagement team and we will look to gather and analyse client feedback in a number of different ways including more face to face meetings and workshops, increased surveys and research and more formal user groups.

2. Price & Value Outcome

REQUIREMENT

Making sure that customers pay a fair price for a product or service in relation to the overall value and benefit that they pay for it.

OUR APPROACH

Our methodology has been to group our assessment into 3 key areas of focus, which are outlined below, along with a summary of the reason for our approach.

Further information is available with our Fair Value Assessment:

1. Price:

A clear view of all charges applicable to the customer is vital part of the assessment as to whether fair value is being provided.

2. Platform:

This covers the overall “product” which is used by the customer, and the key features which they are benefiting from. Includes additional services offered as part of the overall proposition, as well as the functionality and features of the platform itself.

3. Service:

The service is an integral part of the offering, and must form a vital part of any value assessment.

We have also included the development of user “personas” at end customer level, as well as our users within financial intermediary firms. This provides a useful basis to provide example customer scenarios, with which to test the value assessments. For example, to check which customer persona may wish to use and benefit from a new report or piece of functionality.

KEY DEVELOPMENTS & FINDINGS

- Fees and charges remain transparent, clearly disclosed and consistent with the specialist nature of the platform and services provided.
- Investment in service capability, platform development and customer support-- including non revenue generating features such as the Additional Needs functionality--forms part of the overall value delivered to customers.
- Ongoing monitoring arrangements remain in place to ensure that pricing continues to reflect the benefits received by customers in the target market.

Based on our overall value assessment, we believe that the GrowthInvest platform offers fair value to the target market.

NEXT STEPS

We will continue to monitor the GrowthInvest Platform as a product, and our associated services, as well as the external marketplace, so as to ensure that we continue to provide fair value to all our customers.

3. Consumer Understanding Outcome

REQUIREMENT

Making sure firms provide clear information, so that customers can confidently make informed decisions about financial products and services.

OUR APPROACH

We originally adopt an approach that involved reviewing and assessing all client documentation, including user guides and other collateral, alongside client communication.

This was assessed both internally in a multi-stage process, and in many cases, where required, this was passed to an external consultancy firm to provide further views and input.

Our focus was on ensuring good clear communication and “plain English” at every stage and ensuring that our own communications were kept jargon free.

This approach has continued, and much has focused on the further development of the Knowledge Centre, which provides a range of differing ways for clients both intermediary and underlying “investor” clients, to access information, including videos, factsheets, step by step guides and more.

KEY DEVELOPMENTS & FINDINGS

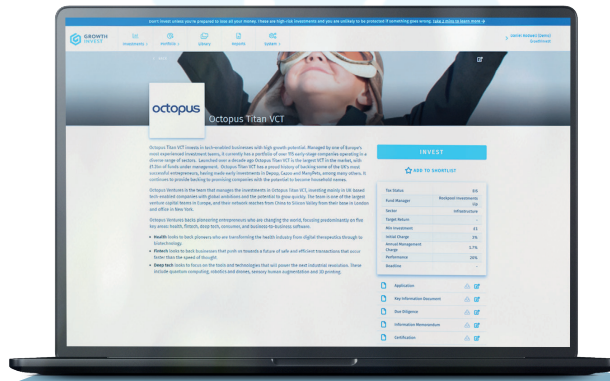

- Client and adviser documentation continues to be reviewed to ensure clarity, balance and appropriateness for adviser led distribution.

- We reviewed our standard communications to clients and found some variations from standard templates. These have been addressed, and standardised. A flexible set of communication options and preferences have been made available.
- The introduction of annual reviews for all intermediary clients as part of the Engage programme provides a structured opportunity to discuss platform use, upcoming developments, and any client or customer understanding issues.
- Feedback gathered through adviser engagement and platform interaction is used to refine communications and educational material on an ongoing basis.
- Where required, we have used external 3rd parties to provide research, feedback and input. This has helped us to remove industry “jargon” which may not be immediately understandable to all parties.
- We continue to add to our growing library of customer collateral within our Knowledge Centre and to gather 3rd party and customer feedback wherever possible.

NEXT STEPS

We will continue to focus on clear and consistent communications, and are looking to further expand the product and “industry” area of the Knowledge Centre to provide more and deeper information and frequently asked questions.

We will introduce a range of case studies across differing products to aid the understanding and use cases amongst our client base.

4. Consumer Support Outcome

REQUIREMENT

Making sure customers are provided with enough information and support to meet their needs throughout their relationship with a firm.

OUR APPROACH

Consumer support has been a key area of focus, with particular emphasis on accessibility, responsiveness and the treatment of customers with additional needs. We reviewed all our processes and associated metrics, including performance vs. SLAs and targets.

We have reviewed existing support materials and contact points, including looking at the differing preferred methods of the various client segments.

In addition, we looked again at the measurement of customer support across the business, in particular for vulnerable clients.

KEY DEVELOPMENTS & FINDINGS

- We offer a range of options for customers to request and receive additional support, including an expanded Client Services team available over extended hours via email, platform or telephone. Additional online support, collateral and guides.
- The platform's Additional Needs functionality creates a clear, auditable mechanism for identifying and supporting customers who may require adjustments, helping to avoid foreseeable harm.

- The Client Services function has been expanded, including the appointment of a Head of Client Services, working closely with the Head of Client Engagement to strengthen oversight of service delivery and customer outcomes.
- The introduction of a customer support platform (Freshdesk) 2 years ago, continues to provide the company with an excellent platform to centralise all client requests, to track response times and to
- Customers and advisers have access to multiple support channels, with service standards monitored through management information and operational oversight.
- Staff training and escalation processes are in place to support vulnerable customers and those with additional needs in line with internal policy.

NEXT STEPS

We will continue to expand our client services and associated support teams as the business grows, and will continue to focus on online support and help, which allows clients - if they choose - to research and find out the answers to an ever-increasing number of common queries and questions.

We are currently evaluating the introduction of AI chat bots for additional support. We will continue to analyse and review the client use and effectiveness of the recently launched Additional Needs area of the platform.

Fair Value Assessment

WHAT IS A FAIR VALUE ASSESSMENT?

As part of Consumer Duty, all platforms (and product providers) are required to provide a value assessment of their products and services. This needs to be carried out within a robust framework and methodology so as to ensure that GrowthInvest can properly assess whether our products and services offer value for money for customers within our target markets.

Value can be assessed by using internal data and information, or by conducting customer research. The FCA expects any non-monetary costs and benefits to be assessed qualitatively. Parts of this value assessment are built into our existing processes, and therefore are carried out on an ongoing basis. A full value assessment will be carried out on an annual basis, so to as ensure that GrowthInvest continues to deliver good customer outcomes.

HOW IS GROWTHINVEST DELIVERING GOOD OUTCOMES FOR CUSTOMERS?

GrowthInvest is a secure online platform, specifically designed to simplify research, investment and reporting on tax-efficient and alternative investments including EIS and SEIS funds, VCTs and IHT products. We believe that this helps advisers deliver good customer outcomes and helps meet their financial goals. As a company and as a business, GrowthInvest has always placed both our financial intermediary clients and their underlying clients, at the heart of everything we do and focus on.

VALUE ASSESSMENT

We have assessed our platform proposition, services and associated products and services, and believe that it offers fair value:

Product or Service	Value for Money Assessment	Date
GrowthInvest Platform	Offers Fair Value	Q1 2025
Standard Platform Account	Offers Fair Value	Q1 2025
ISA Account	Offers Fair Value	Q1 2025

VALUE ASSESSMENT FRAMEWORK

Our Value Assessment framework defines our approach to conducting the value assessment, and is based primarily around 3 wider assessment categories which are:

1. Price
2. Platform
3. Service

It is reliant on the methodology, our existing governance processes, and the target market statements.

VALUE ASSESSMENT METHODOLOGY

Our methodology has been to group our assessment into 3 key areas of focus, which are outlined below, along with a summary of the reason for our approach:

1. Price:
A clear view of all charges applicable to the customer is vital part of the assessment as to whether fair value is being provided
2. Platform:
This covers the overall “product” which is used by the customer, and the key features which they are benefiting from. Includes additional services offered as part of the overall proposition, as well as the functionality and features of the platform itself.
3. Service:
The service is an integral part of the offering, and most form a vital part of any value assessment.

Fair Value Assessment (continued)

We have also included the development of user “personas” at end customer level, as well as our users within financial intermediary firms. This provides a useful basis to provide example customer scenarios, with which to test the value assessments. For example, to check which customer persona may wish to use a new report or piece of functionality.

1. Price:

Our Assessment includes all fees and charges paid by our customers, as well as overall market positioning, our income from fees in relation to the overall charges paid by the client across the whole value chain. We carried out price comparisons with equivalent platform products and services in the wider adviser market, as well as comparisons with any similar competitive products and services (whether direct to customer or advised). This has included external data sources, where available, as well as our own detailed internal research.

2. Platform:

We have assessed the overall platform and the GrowthInvest proposition by comparing all key features, the available product range, and the additional services that we offer alongside the platform, as well as the overall security and reliability of the platform. Wherever possible, we have reviewed against any competitive propositions, or an equivalent service used by financial intermediary firms for more traditional main market products. For example, in reviewing and prioritising certain products or features within the product pipeline. The assessment includes data around customer usage of platform features and functionality, as well as end customer and adviser activity statistics and MI.

3. Service:

Our service assessment includes all areas that have an impact on our customers, including financial intermediaries requiring service to deliver good outcomes to the end customer. This includes customer feedback, internal SLA performance, performance vs. internal targets and any external or 3rd party feedback. This has been mainly centred around the internal client services team, including the relatively recently created role of Head of Client Engagement. This has been part of our ongoing service monitoring and is reviewed on an on-going basis. We would like to include additional client feedback and will begin further research initiatives in Summer 2023.

Appendix 1 - Standard Fees & Charges

We believe that all GrowthInvest client charges should be clear and simple, and this summary provides an overview of the different types of standard charges on the GrowthInvest Platform.

There are three different types of charges that may be incurred on a GrowthInvest account:

1. Fund/Company Charges:

When an investment is made into a fund or managed portfolio there may be an initial as well as an ongoing charge for the investment. Any charges will be clearly outlined in the specific investment memorandum and on the GrowthInvest website. These fees are applied by the underlying fund manager and not by GrowthInvest.

2. GrowthInvest Annual Fees:

The GrowthInvest Annual fees are charged in return for providing platform services for the investment. These are mainly an on-going service fee based on the value of the overall investment value, as well as some additional transactional and administrative charges. These are outlined in full below.

3. Adviser Charges:

The payment for an adviser's time and advice is via fees or on a commission basis. These are agreed by the investor and the adviser, and normally fall into one of the following three types:

- Initial fees
- Ongoing fees
- Performance fees

4. Ongoing Execution & Ongoing Monitoring:

- Once client accounts are activated, GrowthInvest can facilitate investment across all tax efficient products. We obtain letters of authority from third party fund managers in order to publish all documentation and upload for clients in their investment portals.
- Advisers control and configure their clients' account access and the ability to restrict clients from investing directly outside of the advisers' permission.
- We host regular due diligence check-ups with third party fund managers to ensure ongoing compliance and suitability.

The ongoing annual charge for the GrowthInvest service is 0.25%, with a minimum charge of £250 per annum. A full list of the standard GrowthInvest charges can be found. Please note that there are no transaction charges on new investments.
